

Ault Park is one of the most popular parks in the city, as well as one of our most popular venues. The combination of the grand pavilion, cascading waterfall, and exceptional views are what makes this venue nationally recognized and our most sought out venue.

The park's original land was donated in 1911 to honor May and Levi Ault, the former Cincinnati Park commissioner and the pavilion was opened to the public 1930. In the late 1980's, the pavilion was restored after falling into disrepair, but has been kept in great condition ever since.

Ault Park has been the host for the Cincinnati Concours d'Elegance car show since 1996. This is a nationally recognized car show, that showcases some of the most spectacular automobiles and motorcycles from the past, present and future.

The amazing qualities of the park and pavilion will leave your guests in awe. Let this amazing venue be your location for the start of your journey together, which you can revisit for years to come. Let our something old, be your something new.
