

Old family and cultural traditions are a fun way to add a touch of tradition and history into your wedding. Here are some traditions from around the world, that are still being used today.

- Filipino couples release doves together to symbolize a long and peaceful marriage.
- In Mexico, brides will often carry two bouquets. One is for herself, and the other is either for the Virgin Mary or given to the longest married couple during the reception
- In Czechoslovakia, family and friends plant a tree in honor of the bride. The legend is that the bride will live as long as the tree.
- Newlyweds in Germany must put their bond to the test by working together to saw a log in front of their guests. This symbolizes their ability to face obstacles together.

